Attendance of conferences or meetings, and the award of a URS conference grant, does not 'officially' excuse absences from class or missed deadlines. For this reason, conference awards are rarely made for more than three days of missed classes. Before you apply, check on your syllabi and speak with your instructors to ensure that your conference will not adversely affect your coursework.

I understand that award of a conference grant will not excuse me from classes and verify that my travel dates will not adversely affect my course work.

Conference Budget Information

This is meant to make sure you understand all of the costs associated with attending a conference. Even if you have a plan for covering all of the costs, please itemize the expected cost of travel (airfare, ground, bus, etc.), lodging, registration fee, meals, poster printing, etc. You are required to outline all expenses. Failure to indicate full costs of the conference will void your application. The URS conference grant does not cover all of the expenses that are required to attend a conference, so it's important to demonstrate that you've thought through your expenses and considered the resources that you have available to you. Later, you will be asked to list your other sources of funding.

Please list other confirmed funding sources and allocated amounts to demonstrate how you have thought through your expenses and considered the resources you have available. This may be other grants, your mentor's resources, your own pocket, etc.

This conference grant can be used to have URS pay directly for registration or travel costs (if less than $500) or can be used for reimbursement after the conference takes place. The maximum conference grant award from URS is $500.

Please indicate if you would like to work with URS Program Coordinator Leah Wills to have URS pay for registration/travel costs directly or work with her to be reimbursed.

Agreement

If awarded a conference grant,

- I agree to give a poster presentation of my project at Duke's Undergraduate Research Symposium in April;
- For the safety and wellness of our community, I agree to adhere to the Duke Compact and Workplace rules and regulations;
- I understand that I must submit a reflection to the URS office via a link they provide in the award letter within two weeks after the conference;
- Finally, I understand that if URS pays for registration fees or airfare for me to attend the conference I must actually attend the conference.
- Failure to adhere to any of this agreement will mean that I am not be eligible for any future funding from URS, including conference grants, independent study grants, assistantship grants, or Deans Summer Research Fellowship.

Check this box to confirm you are a Duke University student and that you agree to the terms detailed above.
